SUNSHINE TRAIL

Roses bowed in bloom, in the sunny days of June,
Blossoms falling, nature's calling, in a breezy tune.
Dew drops sweetly spray o'er the fields of new mown hay,
Fields so mellow, green and yellow, scent the air all day.

Chorus.

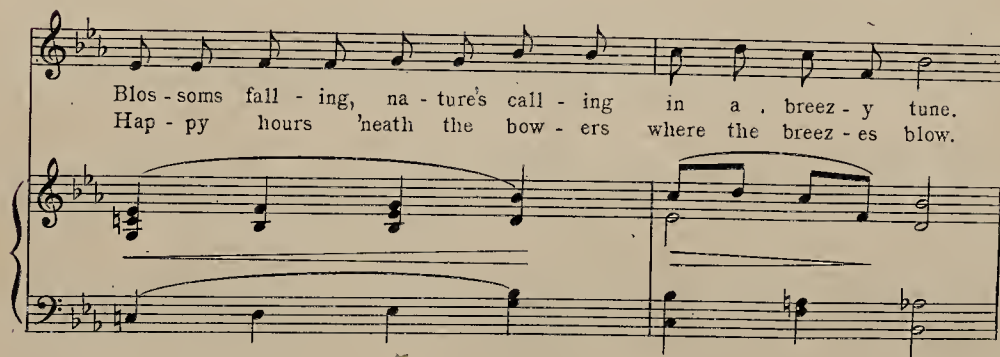

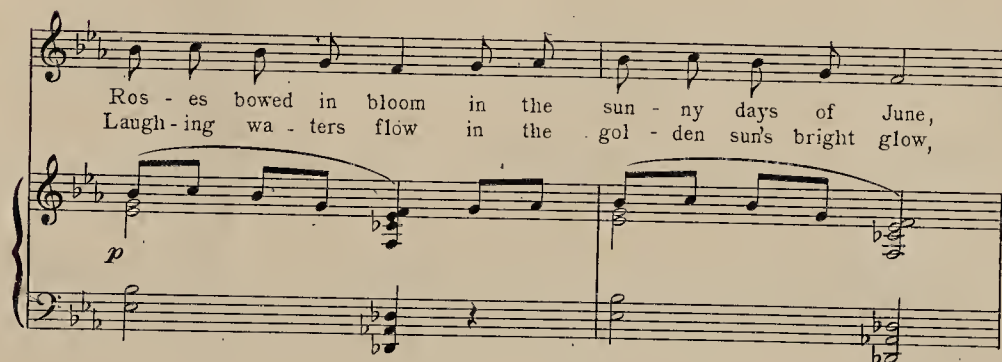

There's a little land of sunshine
Where sunbeams play all day,
Where broken hearts are gladdened
And tears are smiled away,
Where dreamer's dreams are hiding
And wishes never fail,
And this little land of sunshine
Is the land of Sunshine Trail.

Laughing waters flow in the golden sun's bright glow,
Happy hours 'neath the bowers where the breezes blow,
Woodland echoes ring, mem'-ries of the past they bring,
Back to childhood in the wildwood, where the song birds sing.
